Jean-Claude Fort

Université Paris 5

Bivariate Coupling via a "Universal Random Generator

Abstract : We define a bivariate extension of the univariate quantile transform. It leads to a « universal » generator of probability distributions on rectangles of $\mathbb{R}^2$. Then we obtain a coupling of these distributions on finite rectangles that define transports which share good properties.